LECTURES AND SEMINARS IN ANALYTICAL PSYCHOLOGY

Imprisonment and Individuation

2011 - C. G. Jung Foundation of Ontario

2015 - The C. G. Jung Society of Montreal

Drawing on symbolic material including visual art, dreams, and literature, this lecture explores the dynamic tensions between freedom and constraint as well as the potential for an experience of “imprisonment” to serve as a crucible for transformation.

Life Yet to Live: Individuation in the film *The Mother

2011 - C.G. Jung Foundation of Ontario

2015 - The C. G. Jung Society of Montreal

This film seminar explores the conflicts, both inner and outer, that manifest as a mature woman encounters stirrings of new life and previously split-off aspects of her psyche begin to disturb the habitual order of her world. In the particulars of this woman’s journey toward greater vitality and wholeness can be discerned some of the archetypal patterns and motifs common to the individuation process in the second half of life, including the issue of sacrifice with no guarantees of how the future will unfold.

The Symbolic Life

2011 - C. G. Jung Foundation of Ontario

This lecture explores a depth psychological Jungian approach to working with symbolic material spontaneously produced by the unconscious in dreams. This symbolic approach supports the integration of conscious and unconscious parts of the psyche, contributing to greater wholeness of the personality.

Camino: Outer Journey with Inner Meaning

2012 - C.G. Jung Foundation of Ontario

This presentation explores the archetype of pilgrimage from a Jungian perspective, noting parallels between the pilgrimage experience – a kinetic ritual carried out in liminal space and time – and the psychological journey of individuation.

Dancing One’s Own Steps: Collective Constraints Versus the Inner Imperative

2012 - OAJA Analytic Training Program

This film seminar based on Baz Lurmann’s Strictly Ballroom provides an opportunity to reflect on a particular young man’s journey of individuation and to observe dynamic patterns of the self-regulating psyche in action.

Accessing the Unconscious Via Fingerpaint

2012 – OAJA Analytic Training Program

Participants in this experiential workshop have an opportunity to experiment with finger paint and discover its many properties; reflect on this experience, both on the process as well as on the feelings constellated; explore Jungian approaches to interpretation, working with paintings produced by the participants; and, discuss considerations for use of finger paint by clients in analysis.

Death as a Rite of Passage

2012 & 2016 – OAJA Analytic Training Program

The archetypes are recognizable in outer patterns of behaviour, especially those that cluster around the basic and universal experiences of life such as birth, coming of age, marriage, and death and separation. From the perspective of cultural anthropology, death is one of several rites of passage in the life cycle. According to Jung, “Shrinking away from death is something unhealthy and abnormal, which robs the second half of life of its purpose.” This 4-part seminar for training candidates includes readings, discussion and presentations on themes relevant to working with clients dealing with issues of mortality.

The Therapeutic Relationship: transference, counter-transference and the implications of neuroscience for the analytic encounter

2014 – OAJA Analytic Training Program

This 4-part seminar for training candidates explores Jungian theory in light of current research with a view to developing a heightened awareness of the complexity of the therapeutic relationship and a growing capacity to reflect on the subtleties of what takes place between the analyst and client in the collaborative process of Jungian Analysis.

Alchemical Symbolism in Psychotherapy

2016 – OAJA Analytic Training Program

According to Jung, the psyche consists essentially of images and the vital activities taking place within an individual appear as a series of images. In these images Jung discerned recurrent patterns and regularities which he called the archetypes of the collective unconscious. As part of his broad comparative study of symbolism, not only did he note striking parallels between alchemical symbolism and certain archetypal motifs in his patients’ dreams, but he also saw that analytical psychology and the individuation process coincided in a curious way with the alchemical opus of transformation. This 4-part seminar series explores these parallels.

Private Seminars and Workshops

- Participatory Film Seminars – an annual series exploring films through a Jungian Lens
- Dream Discussion Group – exploring common motifs and attending to dreams as a source of insight into how we live our lives
- Personal and Social Transformation, an experiential workshop using art media
